UPPER-VOLTA PRESIDENT TO VISIT UNITED STATES

President Maurice Yameogo of Upper Volta will pay a state visit to Washington March 29 and 30 at President Johnson's invitation.

After a two-day visit in Washington, he is expected to make a brief tour of the United States. His will be the first official state visit to the United States by an African head of State this year.

Following is the text of the White House announcement:

"President Johnson today announced that His Excellency Maurice Yameogo, President of the Republic of Upper Volta, has accepted an invitation to visit him in Washington on March 29 and 30.

"President Yameogo's visit will be the first official state visit to the United States made by an African Head of state this year. After his two-day visit in Washington, the President of the West African State is expected to make a brief tour of the United States."

AUSTRIA BECOMES 13TH MEMBER OF DAC

The Federal Republic of Austria has become a member of the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) it was announced recently.

DAC is composed of representatives of the main capital-exporting countries of the 21-nation OECD. It has as its major aims an increase of the flow of financial resources of developing countries, improvement of the effectiveness of economic aid and coordination of national aid efforts.

With Austria's membership, DAC now comprises 13 OECD member nations plus the commission of the European Economic Community (Common Market). The other 12 countries in DAC are Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Federal Republic of Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, the United States and the United Kingdom.

INVOLVING HEMISPHERE ARCHITECTS TO ATTEND WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

Prominent architects from Latin America and the United States are scheduled to be among the 3,000 delegates expected here in June for the eleventh Pan American Congress of Architects.

Organizers of the conference expected it to be the world's largest single gathering of architects. Running concurrently with the Pan American Congress will be the 97th annual convention of the American Institute of Architects (A.I.A.).

ILO APPROVES INVITATIONS OF BRITISH GUYANA, BARBADOS

The governing body of the International Labor Organization (ILO) has adopted a budget totalling $20,337,871 for 1966.

The new budget, which is $1,653,524 more than this year's, will be submitted for final approval to the International Labor Conference in June.

The ILO announced the budget is "taking into account the recent reorganization of the ILO to enhance its ability to accept the new tasks imposed by a changing world."

The governing body dealt with a number of other matters during its session which opened March first.

It approved invitations to British Guyana, Mauritius and Barbados to attend the 49th session of the International Labor Conference in June as observers. It declined by a vote of 10 in favor, 25 against and nine abstentions to invite Southern Rhodesia as an observer.

Those who voted against included some Africans, some Latin Americans and some Communists. No specific details of the voting were given.

It took note of an interim report by a panel of the commission which had examined the alleged violations of trade union rights in Japan -- the only other case which has so far been submitted to the commission. The panel on Japan will meet in the near future to draw up its final report.

BILL OFFERED TO MAKE PRESIDENTIAL ASSASSINATION FEDERAL CRIME

A bill which would make it a Federal crime to kill, kidnap or assault the President, the Vice President or any other officer next in line of succession was submitted to Congress earlier last week by Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach.

Conspiracies or attempts to kill or kidnap any of the designated individuals would also be a violation of Federal law under the measure.

The bill is designed to implement the recommendation of the report of the Warren Commission that investigated the assassination of President Kennedy.

INDIAN PRIME MINISTER TO VISIT WASHINGTON IN JUNE

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India has accepted President Johnson's invitation to visit Washington June 2 and 3, the White House has announced. The two leaders will discuss matters of mutual interest of their countries.

It will be Mr. Shastri's first visit to the United States.

President Johnson is looking forward to meeting the Prime Minister, Assistant White House Press Secretary Malcolm Kilduff told newsmen as he announced the coming visit.

U.S. GIVES BOUND VOLUME OF MOON PICTURES TO U.N.

The United States has given to the United Nations a bound volume of close-up pictures of the moon taken by the U.S. Ranger VII satellite.

Thus, the United States hopes that delegates from all 114 member States may see the results of the American space experiment.

As part of the U.S. program to further international cooperation in space, the U.S. also sent pictures of the moon to scientists of 39 other countries last month.

In a letter to the U.N. Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, released last week, U.S. Ambassador Francis Plimpton said that "it is hoped wide international cooperation will be stimulated by this distribution of research quality material and that the task of evaluating the photographs will thereby be reduced materially."

RUSK URGES NON-QUOTA ENTRY STATUS FOR JAMAICA, TRINIDAD-TOBAGO

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has urged the U.S. Congress to approve a new law permitting citizens of Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago to immigrate to the United States on the same non-quota basis assigned to other independent Western Hemisphere nations.

"In view of the consistent policy of the Congress in according our independent Hemisphere neighbours non-quota status, and the fact that Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago are among the friendliest of these neighbours, I do not doubt that the Congress will remove this unintended discrimination by granting them non-quota status," Mr. Rusk said.

The Secretary made these comments in a prepared statement he made last week before the Immigration and Nationality Subcommittee of the House of Representatives. The subcommittee currently is considering amendments to the U.S. Immigration laws proposed by the Administration.

Mr. Rusk explained that Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago were still dependent territories when the existing Immigration law was enacted. That law exempted from the Immigration Quota System persons born in Western Hemisphere nations that were independent at the time. Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago acquired independence in 1962.

Secretary Rusk pointed out that Western Hemisphere natives have been able to immigrate freely to the United States for some 40 years.

"The special relationship which has long existed between this nation and our American sister Republics is based upon a mutuality of interests, ideals, and aspirations, which first found expression in the Monroe Doctrine and which were later reaffirmed by the founding of the Organization of American States, and Good Neighbor Policy and, more recently, the Alliance for Progress," Mr. Rusk asserted. He urged that the non-quota status for natives of the Americas remain unchanged, as requested in the proposed Immigration law.

JOHNSON, WILSON EXPECTED TO MEET IN U.S. NEXT MONTH

President Johnson will be "very happy" to meet with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson sometime during the British leader's visit to the United States next month, the White House announced.

It was announced in London earlier that Mr. Wilson will speak to the Economic Club of New York April 14 and meet with United Nations Secretary General U Thant the same day. The British Prime Minister met with President Johnson in Washington in December for extensive talks.

Presidential Press Secretary George E. Reedy said the British Government has indicated that Mr. Wilson would like to visit President Johnson.

"There is no definite date, but I am quite confident that the President will be very happy to see him," Mr. Reedy said.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL AWARDED TO GENERAL O'MEARA

General Andrew P. O'Meara, who will become U.S. Army Commander, Europe on March 18 and who, until recently was Commander-in-Chief, U.S. Southern Command, was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal in Pentagon ceremonies recently.

The medal was presented by U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman General Earle G. Wheeler.

General O'Meara was cited for having "improved security and advanced peace and solidarity in the Western Hemisphere" during the period from February, 1961 to February, 1965 when he served as Southern Command leader.

The award also praised General O'Meara's "leadership, wisdom and devotion to duty."

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT WEIGHS CHANGES IN OIL IMPORT RESTRICTIONS

The Interior Department is weighing whether restrictions on imports of oil into the United States should be changed.

The department is charged with administering quotas on oil imports under a law passed by Congress in 1955. Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall opened public hearings on March 10.

Mr. Udall pointed out that the controls are designed to maintain the nation's security by preventing too great dependence upon outside sources of this "indispensable commodity."

At the same time, Mr. Udall said, a "sensible balance between imports and domestic production... contributes to the general well-being of the oil industry (and) of the free world, both at home and abroad."

He quoted from a proclamation by President Eisenhower establishing the program in 1959. The quotas, Mr. Eisenhower said then, have "the twin aims of sharing our large and growing market on an equitable basis with other (foreign) producing areas and avoiding disruption of normal patterns of international trade."

Last week's public hearings opened the first full review of the quotas since mandatory controls were imposed in 1959.

Open hearings are planned for two days—and possibly longer—to get a full range of public expression on the policy. Congressmen and Governors from oil-producing States, as well as oil industry spokesmen, are appearing.

Independent oil producers and lawmakers from coal-mining States have joined to demand a reduction in oil imports. U.S. Consumers, especially in the Northeastern part of the country and on the West Coast, see a reduction as a threat to their supply of heating fuel.

OAS GRANTS 32 SCHOLARSHIPS FOR PLANNING COURSE IN PERU

The organization of American States (OAS) has awarded 32 scholarships to nationals from 15 American Republics to attend a course in urban and regional planning in Lima, Peru.

The course, which begins April 1, will last for two years. It has been organized by the OAS in collaboration with the Instituto de Planeamiento de Lima of the Universidad Nacional de Ingenieria del Peru. Yale University of New Haven, Connecticut, provided the technical assistance in planning the course.

Principal objective of the course is to train professors and specialists in the techniques of urban and regional planning. Those who successfully complete the course will receive a master's degree.

ENGLAND -- MULTI-RACIAL

England, for good or ill, had become a multi-racial society, Lord Gardiner, a leading member of the Labor Government, told the House of Lords.

Inaction by the two previous Conservative Governments had meant that the next generation would "never see the England which we have been used to seeing."

Lord Gardiner, the Lord Chancellor — Head of the Judiciary — said the last Government suddenly woke up to the fact in 1962 that colored immigrants was running at about 190,000 a year and it was really too late to do anything to stop Britain becoming permanently a multi-racial society, he said.

But, he added, the Labor Government would have taken the same attitude.

Lord Gardiner rejected a proposal by his predecessor, Lord Dilhorne, for amendments to the 1962 Commonwealth Immigrants Control Act to stop illegal evasion.

One reason the French, German and Dutch economies had gone ahead faster than the British in recent years had been because they allowed in a substantially higher proportion of immigrants than Britain did, Lord Gardiner said.

At the moment, Britain was taking 60,000 immigrants a year. These either had work vouchers granted by the Government or were doctors or nurses whose services were in particular demand.

Lord Gardiner said his own bias against racial intolerance came from the fact that he visited the Belsen concentration camp within a day or two of its being taken at the end of the war.

Belsen was the logical ending of those who believed people of different races were not human beings like them.

QUEEN IS 'MOVED BY COMPASSION'

Queen Elizabeth decided on her own to make a hospital call on her uncle, the Duke of Windsor, and while with him meet for the first time the Duke's American-born wife.

"She thought it up herself," said a source close to the Royal Family. "Nobody suggested it. She was moved by compassion."

A woman, a close friend of the Queen, said:

"It would have been unthinkable for the Queen not to have visited her uncle when he was recuperating from a serious eye operation.

So far as is known, this will be the first time the Queen has met the Duchess of Windsor, for whom the Duke—as King Edward VIII gave up his throne in 1936 to marry "the woman I love."

The queen is believed to have last seen the Duke in 1957.

Since his abdication—when the Queen was but 10—she has seen him several times at family gatherings but the Duchess was not with him.

Some Londoners speculated that the Queen's visit to her uncle's bedside might even lead to the end of the Duke's and Duchess' exile from Britain. Since their marriage, the Duke and Duchess have lived mostly in France and the United States.

The Duke, who is 70, underwent surgery last week for the third time since February 26 to correct the detached retina of his left eye. This latest operation lasted 105 minutes.

CIVIL RIGHTS

In Birmingham, Alabama, Boston white minister, Rev. James J. Reeb, who went South on a Civil Rights mission died last Thursday of a fractured skull inflicted by a white gang in racially-troubled Selma.

Only an automatic respirator had kept the Rev. Reeb, 36-year-old father of four, alive since he underwent emergency brain surgery in University Hospital on Tuesday night. His wife, Marie, was at his bedside when the end came.

REUNION

A 28-year-old prisoner at Nantes, France, met his father for the first time for 26 years—in the back of a black maria on their way to jail. The young prisoner, chatting to the 53-year-old man handcuffed beside him, heard how the man's two-year-old son, disappeared without a trace during the war and the two men realised they were father and son.

Now they have asked to share a cell.

ISLA DI ORO

Last week-end saw the opening of another entertainment spot in Aruba by a son of the soil, Mr. Adolfo Oduber, who undoubtedly has confidence in the future of Aruba.

"Isla di Oro" is a sea "bar-restaurant" on the reef at Pos Chiquito, built in the shape of a boat. The grand opening took place last Saturday when the Lt. Governor amid a large number of guest performed the opening ceremonies.

In his speech, the Lt. Governor mentioned that the Administrative Council would approach the Island Council for a Fls. 25,000 loan to Mr. Oduber to assist him in finishing his restaurant.

Approach to Isla di Oro is by a wooden bridge through thick foliage. Along the way cages with many varieties of tropical birds are placed. The bridge ends in a lagoon where the rest of the journey must be undertaken by rafts built on empty gas cylinders, a unique means of transportation, indeed. The restaurant and bar is on the bottom floor, toilets are in the bow of the ship, and a dance floor is in the "bridge" of the ship.

Situated on the reef between the sea and the lagoon, Isla di Oro promises to be a place where one go "to get rid of it all," and with proper management and courteous service, there's no reason why it should not be the number one night spot in Aruba.

Thousands visited Isla di Oro on Sunday. The fare charged over and back by rafts was a guilder. Hundreds of bouquets were sent to the Management by leading firms, friends and relations of Mr. Oduber.

The Sun Staff wishes to add their congratulations to Mr. Oduber on this wonderful addition to this beautiful island.

COST OF LIVING IN HOLLAND HIGHER THAN IN ANTILLES

It was revealed last week that a comparative survey made recently in Holland and in the Antilles has led to the conclusion that the price level in Holland, expressed in Netherlands guilders, is 20% higher than the price level in the Netherlands Antilles, expressed in Antillean guilders. In other words, the purchasing power of the Netherlands florin in Holland is 20% lower than the purchasing power of the Antillean guilder in the Netherlands Antilles. Otherwise stated, this means that a spendable income in Holland of approximately NFls. 1,200.

To maintain the same living standard in Holland as that in the Netherlands Antilles, an average family with average income (between NFls. 6,000 and Fls. 10,000) must earn in Holland 1,400 Neth. guilders for each NFls. 1,000 of income in the Netherlands Antilles. This amount varies from 1,250 Netherlands florins for married persons with five children to NFls. 1,600 for unmarried persons. For higher income, this amount gradually increases to NFls. 1,600 and NFls. 1,700 (for unmarried persons even over NFls. 2,000) for each NFls. 1,000 of income. For lower income brackets, the amount drops gradually from NFls. 1,200 to NFls. 1,300 for each NFls. 1,000.

ANGLICANS CALL FOR 'MODESTY'

the women of Jamaica for the Christian standards they have in the main endeavoured to uphold in our country.

"In view of this tradition, the Church deplores the present trend to be found in

MEDITATION

WHAT MUST I DO TO BE SAVED?

What a tremendous question that is! Of all questions ever uttered by the human soul there is not one in all the universe of God in the answer to which are involved such tremendous issues for time and security. Have you ever asked it? Have you ever been worried about it? If not, let everything else go. Shove everything else aside. Settle this question now as the most important you will ever have to face and give yourself no rest until you have an answer that satisfies to the bottom of your soul.

ROSICRUCIANS TO CELEBRATE ANCIENT
NEW YEAR RITE ON SATURDAY MARCH 20 NEXT

New officers of the local ARUBA CHAPTER
AMORC, who will be installed are: Mrs. F.
M. van Schouwen, Master; G. E. Illis, Deputy Master; H. P. van Schouwen, Chaplain;
P. S. Maduro, Inner Guardian; Mrs. E. Aben-anon, Outer Guardian; Mrs. H. Leerdam,
Treasurer of the Board of Trustees.

The Ceremony, and conclave, are to be held at the Foresters' Building, at Bernhard street 320, San Nicolas, with may visiting members from the surrounding localities in attendance.

According to E. G. Wong A Soy, Master of the Rosicrucian ARUBA CHAPTER AMORC, The Ancient Egyptians, from the time of Memphis to the Ptolemaic Period, began their New Year always on or about the time of the vernal equinox, when the sun on its journey crosses the celestial equator and enters the Zodiacal Sign of Aries, which always occurs on or about March 21. This was considered the beginning of the awakening of nature from the dormant period of winter, the bursting forth of blossoms, and the growth of living things. The occasion of the New Year will be celebrated, states E. G. Wong A Soy, by a symbolic feast in which the participants receive simple foods, corresponding to certain basic elements of nature, such as salt, corn, and unfermented grape juices.

The Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, a non-sectarian, philosophical fraternity, maintains that its traditional origin occurred during the reign of Pharaoh Akhnaton in 1950 B.C. The Order commemorates the ancient New Year's beginning with a non-sectarian ceremony that embraces the allegorical significance of the age-old Egyptian rite. March 21 is also the beginning of the fiscal period of all Rosicrucian lodges and Chapters throughout the world, and the date is marked by the installation of new ritualistic and administrative officers.

This New Year's celebration marks the Rosicrucian Year 3318.

LAGO'S ISLAND PURCHASES CLIMB 20 PER CENT TO FLs. 1,124,963

Aruba and Curacao merchants received an economic boost from Lago Oil & Transport Co., Ltd., during 1964, amounting to Fls. 1,124,963. The Company's continuing effort to purchase as much material locally as possible, resulted in a twenty per cent increase over purchases in 1963.

In Aruba, merchants saw their Lago purchases climb from Fls. 825,343 in 1963 to Fls. 1,020,260, while Curacao purchases climbed from Fls. 71,733 to Fls. 104,703.

Included among the several thousand items purchases through local suppliers were such things as auto equipment and parts, paint, lumber, household furnishings, instrument parts, freon, sand and gravel, refinery gases, burning and cutting equipment, medical supplies, printing stationery, seal parts, marine equipment and parts, building materials, coveralls, soft drinks, air conditioning equipment, magazines and office equipment.

U.S. AIR FORCE "THUNDERBIRDS"

As we went to press the U.S. Thunderbirds were putting on a performance here in Aruba with a team of six F-100 D Super Sabres.

Lt. Governor Henriquez is expected to fly in one of the planes. They were scheduled to return to Curacao immediately following the aerobatic demonstration.

The six "big" men of the Thunderbirds aerobatic team are: Maj. Paul A. Kauttu, team leader; Captain Charles R. Hamm; Captain Willeam B. Mcgee; Captain Henry D. Canterbury; Captain Clarence L. Langerud, first solo; Captain Robert H. Morgan, second solo; Maj. Lloyd O. Reder and Captain Russell H. Morgan, second solo.

Announcing their arrival last Monday, the squadron flew a couple of times in formation over the city of Willemstad and gave a fine fly-past show over the airport. At 2:30 p.m. the six planes landed after popping out their red-white-and-blue braking parachutes.

The team will leave for San Juan, Puerto Rico today.

GERMAN MISSION ARRIVES IN ANTILLES TONIGHT

Will Study Industrial Potential

A German industrial mission arrived in Curacao last Monday as the guests of the Federal Government during their two-week visit to the Netherlands Antilles. The mission consisting of Dr. Eng. Bernhard von Gresdorff, Dr. Karl Braun and Dr. Lorenz Walg will survey possibilities of industrialization.

This visit of the German mission was, no doubt, the result of the official visit paid by Minister C. D. Kroon and ex-Minister O. S. Henriquez to Bonn in 1963. The German experts will also spend a few days visiting Aruba and Bonaire. During their tour of the islands, they will be accompanied by S.G.M. Rozendal, acting Head of the Federal Information Service.

The Government will furnish the mission information concerning monetary, credit and banking systems and the fiscal and social policies for new business and industries in the Netherlands Antilles. The respective island Governments will acquaint the members with possibilities of industrialization and take them on a tour of the economic development projects. Their visit will end on March 29.

TWO TRINIDAD CALYPSONIANS IN TROUBLE

The Mighty Sniper, who two weeks ago received the crown King Calypso 1965 before 18,000 cheering spectators, began a two-year prison sentence for fraud, after the Appeal Court turned a deaf ear to his plea for the alternative of a fine.

Twenty-eight-year old Mervyn Hodge (The Mighty Sniper) pleaded guilty in April 1963 to 13 charges of falsifying the pay sheets of his employers, Lock Joint (American) Limited, and was then sentenced to two years imprisonment. He appealed.

He broke down and wept as he was led away from his tearful young wife.

Another Calypsonian, Lord Blakie (Carlton Joseph) was fined $ 214 BWI, (including cost and compensation) in his absence on a charge of stealing $150 BWI from a friend, Carlton Jeffrey.

Jeffrey, who had $150 with him, went to Blakie to borrow an additional $150 to get back his repossessed car and to pay off the arrears and left the money with Blakie to complete the transaction.

When Jeffrey went to Blakie for the money he was told that Blakie had gone to Antigua.

When the case was called last week, Blakie was in British Guiana on business.

CHILDREN'S CORNERVANITY WAS HER FAULT

Peggy was a pretty ten-year-old who was very conscious of her looks. "What a beautiful little girl" people would say as she walked by, and things got to a point where Peggy thought she was quite the loveliest thing in the whole wide world.

Her mother tried to stop her being so vain, but it was of no use.

One day it was announced at school that there was to be a fashion show in which Peggy was asked to take part.

"I know I shall win the first prize," she told herself.

The prize was a beautiful big doll and everyone who saw it agreed that it really would be a joy to own such a doll.

Peggy's complexion was dark brown. So were her hair and her eyes, and her mother decided to dress her in the palest of yellow.

The dress was a dream. It was made of embroidered cotton with tiny puff sleeves, a square neckline and a very full gathered skirt. Under it she wore a wide, crinoline petticoat. She wore white shoes and socks and carried a tiny white handbag, trimmed with pale yellow daisies. In her hair she wore a wide bow of yellow ribbon.

Peggy looked beautiful and she knew it.

She looked at herself over and over again in the mirror. "I shall win," she said, "I know I shall."

"Don't you be so sure," her mother said.

When they arrived at the school the other children were already there and they all looked lovely. particularly one little girl whose name was Lisa.

She was wearing a white organdie dress trimmed with tiny blue flowers but what was really outstanding about her was a cheery, little white straw hat which she wore at a jaunty angle!

Soon the parade started and the parents and other people in the audience clapped and clapped at the display of dresses.

Then the big moment came and all was silence as they waited to hear the results.

And do you know what happened?The first prize went to Lisa!

Peggy was so shocked she began to cry and had to be taken out of the room.

"Well I warned you," her mother said, "I never pays to be too sure of winning. Now you see that there was one little girl who looked nicer than you!"

Having said this, Peggy's mother bought her some ice-cream and this helped to take away some of the disappointment.

But Peggy had learned her lesson, and never again did she think herself the most beautiful girl in the world.
